Retirement Strategies

Target Date 2065 to 2067 Retirement Fund

The Fund

This Fund is designed for someone who is currently saving and expects to retire in or around the years 2065 to 2067.

It aims to achieve an attractive return (not guaranteed), while taking a suitable level of risk. This risk is determined by the time left to retirement, the returns possible over that period and how easy it will be to make up any potential losses.

This document provides you with Fund information only and is not an invitation to invest or advice about the suitability of an investment for your personal financial situation.

How It Works

The fund seeks to achieve its aims by gradually moving from more “adventurous” investments, through “balanced” to more “cautious” investments as it gets nearer to the planned retirement date. This is achieved by investing into funds with different risk profiles that hold the company shares, rather than directly investing into underlying securities themselves.

Adventurous investments mean investments, like company shares, which have a greater chance of making bigger returns over the longer term than more cautious investments (and consequently their value can fall and rise significantly in the short term). It is important to be aware that adventurous investments are typically associated with higher risks due to their volatile nature, including loss of capital.

As the saver approaches their planned retirement date, the mix of investments will become more balanced as it moves towards a more cautious approach. The cautious investments will mostly be bonds, a way for governments (UK government bonds are known as “gilts”) and businesses to borrow money. They will probably earn less than shares over the long run but may help lower the risk of significant fluctuations in the saver's pension value as they approach retirement.

The Fund's current strategy is shown below, with today's mix of investments (accessed via the Fund) highlighted.

INVESTMENTS BECOME MORE CAUTIOUS OVER TIME

The fund's investment approach changes to match the needs of a typical saver over their lifetime

| Life Stage | Young/Adventurous | Midlife/Balanced | Pre-Retirement/Cautious |
|--------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Fund's Focus | Long-term growth | Balance of growth and stability | Short-term stability |
| Benefits | Long horizon to accumulate investment growth and recover losses. Regular contributions – at higher and lower asset prices – may help smooth returns (pound cost averaging) | Compound returns on built-up savings can be significant | Savings can continue to build while deciding needs in retirement |
| Risks | High risk of big short-term losses. No guarantee any losses will be recovered | Potential for savings shortfall at retirement, as a result of losses | Uncertainty over how money will be used and hence appropriate investment strategy to pursue. Potential for investment growth is limited |

Manager Summary

INVESTMENT RISKS TO CONSIDER

The value of an investment can go down as well as up and investors may not get back the full amount they invested. Capital is at risk. Past performance does not guarantee future results.

Some of the principal risks of investing in the Fund include:

Market Risk: the risk that the value of the investments will fall as poor economic news reduces the value placed on them in global stock and bond markets where they are traded.

Interest Rate Risk: the risk that the value of the bond investments will fall if market expectations for future interest rates go up and the locked in fixed annual interest rate on them looks less valuable.

Credit Risk: the risk that the value of the bond investments will fall if the credit rating of the issuer deteriorates and the likelihood that payment of both the future interest payments and loan amount falls.

Allocation Risk: the risk of one of the investment Fund in the portfolio not performing as well as others.

Foreign Risk: the risk of the investments not growing or falling in value because of events relating to the foreign countries that the investment fund has your savings in.

Exchange rate or Currency Risk: the risk of any of the investments falling in value due to the currency the investments are in decreasing in value versus the pound.

Liquidity Risk: the risk of not being able to sell any of the investments on a given day due to there not being a market of investors willing to buy them from you.

Reinsurance Risk: the risk of the investments not growing or falling in value in the event of a failure by an insurance provider.
